

EDITOR'S NOTE

This special issue of the journal Psychological topics is devoted to contemporary themes and trends in industrial/work and organizational psychology and covers research and theoretical contributions in a wide variety of important topics in the field.

We hope that this issue will be interesting and useful for scientist, practitioners, students, but also experts of other professions who deal with the field of work.

The editorial board of the journal would like to take this opportunity to express their warmest thanks to all the authors for their contributions, and also to all the reviewers for their constructive suggestions.

Nada Krapić